

CPEX™ - Our Commitment to Real Estate & Business Owners

While the real estate and financial world have changed, our commitment to providing a unique approach to serve the needs of Commercial Real Estate and Business owners has not. CPEX utilizes a team-based approach with a definitive focus on business line, product type, and market specialization. It is our goal to understand the specific objectives of our clients and to direct a team of experts in assisting them to meet their goals. CPEX has created an environment within the company that fosters collaboration over competition to achieve maximum results. The process is designed to be agile and flexible so our teams can implement the most effective strategies.

CPEX provides owners with the most accurate and up-to-date information pertaining to their Real Estate or Business and the marketplace in which it is located. CPEX employs a team of research specialists that support our sales and service teams. Complementing CPEX's unique culture is the emphasis that we place on our operating platform, which is based on years of practical experience. Our business lines are supported by our in-house operations to provide our teams with the best support in the industry. This allows sales and service teams to remain singularly focused on their assignments.

Our integration in various markets and full range of services allows us to offer similar products across geographic lines, to real estate and business owners in addition to tenants and investors.
